tent relief camping type 2

Suitable for setting up camping, relief and military uses and long-term establishment in different climatic environments

Camping tents are generally referred to as tents that can be used in the most severe weather conditions of the country. These tents are suitable for four seasons, This means that they can be used in all seasons of the year according to the climatic conditions of that country. The important features of this type of tent can be mentioned as follows:

It has two doors and two windows with mesh for air conditioning -Ability to install skeletons inside and outside- With wind and storm resistant metal frame- With Pvc coating to prevent and resist rain and snow- Long-term accommodation in hot and cold weather- Convenient and easy installation- Ceiling hanger for lighting inside the tent-Waterproof floor of waterproof cover to prevent water from penetrating into the tent- Body material consisting of waterproof fabric- With nails and rope to connect to the ground for more strength- With retractable straps on doors and windows- Suitable weight for carrying in different places and...

Since these types of tents are used in relief areas, all consumables, including textiles and metal structures, as well as its production stages must be in accordance with the most valid standards.

The dimensions of this strategic tent are 3 meters wide, 4 meters long and 2.1 meters high which all tent accessories are placed in a bag with dimensions of 30 * 40 * 90. The weight of this tent is about 40 kg, which is a very ideal weight in relation to the service it provides.

This model of tent was accepted as the main tent in the Rescue and Relief Organization of Iran after passing various tests in different regions of the country with different climatic conditions, which has played a significant role in improving the quality of relief in the country. The steel frame parts are joined together by CO2 welding machines in full weld. CO2 welding has many advantages over electrode welding, including greater resistance and higher quality of appearance.

In addition to welcoming domestic organizations and organs, this tent has also attracted the attention of other countries, So that in the 2008 Sichuan earthquake in China, Helal Iran's Textile Industries, by supplying 70,000 units of this tent and sending it to China, made the Islamic Republic of Iran proud in front of other donor countries.
